Too Much Dynamite.

JOHNSTOWN, June 15. Major Pitcher's dynamiters have kept Johnstown in a state of nervous fear all day and have even got General Manager Pitcher of the Cambria iron company excited enough to put it to him that the mails and officers of the company were being guarded by the blasts. Adjutant General Hastings had paid no attention to the requests for the display, but after the fourth and last blast he said he would be held responsible for any further damage done. Before the message was sent however Adjutant General Hastings had issued orders to Major Phillips to discontinue the blasting.

Major Phillips has been engaged since Wednesday in blowing out the wreckage in the channel of the Conemaugh above the Pennsylvania railroad stone bridge. He was anxious to have a passage for the water by this evening and to this end put in a five hundred pound blast of dynamite. At noon a blast was placed under two buildings one of which was lying upon the other and both of them covered with logs. The explosion was terrific, the blast not being placed as deep as it should have been. This one did all the damage. The report was awful and the strongest houses in the city trembled like leaves. All the glass was blown out of the windows of the Odd Fellows hall. In the same neighborhood the rear wall of the Catholic church fell upon the B. & O. tracks, blocking them. Chimneys rattled down, all canal and dishes were broken in Kernville, half a mile away.

When asked about the matter, Major Phillips said: "We have used only 2,000 pounds of dynamite to day. The charges will not be so heavy hereafter. I had no idea we were doing any damage. So far as I know no persons were injured."

Adjutant General Hastings to day received a letter from Vice President Morton, saying that on his return to his country home he found that his little girls, from 8 to 14 years of age, had been hard at work since the terrible disaster at Johnstown in making articles of clothing for the poor, homeless children who have survived the floods, and that he forwards to day 127 articles of wearing apparel, made by their own hands or purchased with their own money, with some of their dresses, and that his children would feel greatly obliged if Hastings would cause their clothing to be distributed among the little sufferers by the recent calamity, for whom they feel the deepest sympathy.

Six acres of solidly packed wreckage wedged between the river banks by a hydraulic force that cannot be estimated, have in three days melted away. Large frame houses, hundreds of logs and monster trees were tangled up and buried together with wire and iron bars brought down with the flood. The scene this afternoon when the great mass moved down the river was a remarkable one. The crowds that lined the shores and now famous stone bridge, raised a shout that was heard throughout the length and breadth of the valley.

The west bank of the Conemaugh is again a furnace of fire to night. The wreckage torn up by the dynamite to day was piled up and the torch applied and the whole valley is illuminated. Measles are very prevalent among the children, the Bedford street hospital has two cases of pneumonia and bronchitis and diarrhoea are very general among the workmen. There is, however, no sickness of consequence among the militia. Fourteen bodies were taken out to day.

Dr. Free, of the state board of health, inspected the river towns as far down as Sang Hollow to day. The worst discovery made was a large number of dead horses and cows floating in the river. The dynamite explosions have brought the carcasses to the surface, and they are in a bad state of decomposition. Eight car loads of lumber arrived to day. Rough sheds are already being erected in the heart of the city to be used as stores.

Cronin Grand Jury.

CHICAGO, June 15.—The special grand jury in the Cronin case began the fourth day's session this morning. The indications are that several days will be consumed ere the jury will be prepared to make a final report.

Miss Annie Murphy reiterated to the jury her oft told tale about having seen Dr. Cronin on the street car apparently bound for the depot at a time when subsequent events showed he was cold in death. Miss Murphy still insists that the man she saw was Cronin or his ghost and adheres emphatically to all the details of her original stories.

Thos. G. Winder a law partner of Alexander Sullivan was called and questioned merely regarding Sullivan's specialties. The witness knew but little regarding Sullivan's private affairs and it is stated was unable to give the jury any valuable information.

Alexander Sullivan's friends were jubilant to day over his release. Lawyer Trude referring to Judge Tuley's decision said that Sullivan has been receiving letters and telegrams from all over the country expressing indignation at the course pursued toward him and tendering aid and sympathy. Luke Dillon the well known representative of the Clan na Gael said he thought Judge Tuley's decision was a just one, as the evidence [illegible] held without bail. He expects that an indictment will be returned against Sullivan but cannot say that he has such grounds for the expectation.

Thomas Feeney, who was arrested last night was released from custody this evening.

Wealthy Man Suicides.

CHICAGO, June 15.—James M. Gamble a wealthy real estate dealer of this city was found dead in bed at the Palmer house this afternoon. The indications are that he retired to his apartments during the previous night partly intoxicated and either by mistake or with suicidal intent swallowed a bottle of carbolic acid. Gamble was a bachelor and has figured in several sensational

The Seal Fishery.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 15.—Webb, of New Westminster, B. C., is in town. He says he has information to the effect that England and the United States have come to an understanding in accordance with which no seizures of British vessels will be made in Behring sea this season. As soon as the existing contract with the Alaska Fur company expires an effort will be made to hold an international conference for the purpose of taking steps to jointly protect the seal fur fisheries there as well as in the South Pacific islands. Webb says that the United States has undoubtedly superior rights. The indiscriminate slaughter of seals is having a bad effect, for of seven seals shot only one is secured.

Shot by an Indian.

ST. CROIX, Minn., June 15.—Swan Magnuson, who was shot at Mille Lacs, was brought here yesterday and placed in the hospital. Magnuson says that he had always been on the best terms with the Indian, Wadena, who did the shooting, so that at a loss to account for the attack upon him, except that Wadena was crazy drunk. Wadena called him to the door at midnight on Wednesday night and without a word fired upon him. Credible reports brought here this afternoon from Mora are to the effect that Magnuson was the only person in particular the wild sensational reports had any truth or no foundation.

Arraigned for Felonious Killing.

The prisoners are McGrath, engineer, Parkinson, fireman, Moore, head guard and Elliot, traffic manager's clerk. The magistrate discharged Parkinson. A passenger testified that when the train stopped on the grade Moore, head guard, ran under the wheels of the last carriage and uncoupled several of the carriages. The detached portion immediately descended the grade at a rapid rate. The doors of all the cars were locked. McGrath and Moore were released on bail.

Complainant, vs. The Town of Manitou, Defendant.

In the District Court of the Fourth Judicial District, sitting within and for the County of El Paso.

No. 1212.

Decision on Application for Injunction.

Decker, J., orally:

In the case of this application I regret that I have not been able to give a greater attention than I have to the case, but I have decided that I have reached the conclusion which in my own mind, is very clear under the law.

The suit is brought by the Town of Manitou to restrain the City of Colorado Springs from excavating for the purpose of laying an additional pipe line through the avenues of Manitou, and Ruxton to a point within the corporate limits of the town of Manitou, which it is unnecessary for me to mention.

The defendant has an answer to the first cause of action and a demurrer to the second cause of action.

There was the affidavit and cross-complaint filed by the defendant and [illegible] an answer to the cross-complaint. There is a replication to that setting out the same form of the [illegible] to be determined in upon the cross-complaint that is filed by the defendant.

The defendant alleges that it has since 1878 been the owner of certain water rights and right to the water from certain streams known as Ruxton creek at a point within the corporate limits of Manitou and the right to convey the said water in pipes and ditches from the point where it is taken to the City of Colorado Springs and elsewhere to be used for domestic irrigation and other useful purposes. It is further alleged that the [illegible] of water at said springs and diverted from Ruxton creek [illegible] and under the general laws [illegible] and in the district court to divert the [illegible] of rights and other defendant's rights were determined at that time and have not since been changed.

It is further alleged that in fact the defendant for the purpose of increasing the efficiency of its water system, is [illegible] additional main and [illegible] pipe by extending its water pipes within the corporate limits of Manitou, to Ruxton creek, 3,400 feet, and took such steps as the statute provides to secure and protect its system of water works [illegible]

Julia Ward Howe whose seventieth birthday was celebrated by many of her friends on the 27th of June last, is a vigorous specimen of the healthful influence of devotion to philanthropic causes Mrs Howe's reminiscences of anti slavery days, in which she was a conspicuous figure, will appear in The Cosmopolitan magazine in the course of the articles upon "The Great Agitation." now running in that magazine

Few people realize the immense benefit to the city of the location of the Printers' Home at this place The amount paid the state for the land was contributed by some of our citizens, the most generous of whom were Messrs. F. L. Martin, A. A. McKinney and E. J. Eaton The movement was started last winter by the legislative committee of the Trade's assembly, of which Mr. W. H Montgomery was chairman. During the recent convention every delegate from Colorado worked hard for the result, as well as several from this city, and it is hardly worth while to make special mention.

The International Typographical union has ended its session in Denver. It was a remarkable body of men Those who watched its proceedings were impressed with the intelligence and conservative feeling, as well as the self-reliance shown in all proceedings. It was in the very best sense a deliberate body, taking no action without proper consideration They were very highly pleased with the reception given them in this state. Typographical Union No 49, in Denver, outdid itself in its generous hospitality. Most of the large sum that was expended was furnished by this union. The reception at Ashton also, was a very generous affair. In some respects this was the most gracious reception given. A mountain town has not all the conveniences of some of the older towns on the plains. But the people made up for it in the generous hospitality everywhere shown The kind it was not simply shown by the printers and by the reception committee appointed for that purpose, but all citizens took hold to make the stay of the printers as pleasant and agreeable as possible.

We publish elsewhere the full decision of Judge Decker, together with the contract which is returned in part by the decision. While the injunction asked for was refused, it was refused on grounds which show that the contract gives to this city all that it really asks in stating that we may lay a main sixteen inches instead of the ten inch main now in Manitou. It is to be regretted that this matter is in litigation at all. If both parties will take hold of the matter in a spirit of compromise and fairness there need be no further trouble No one can blame the Manitou people for not being willing that all the water shall not be taken from Boston's creek. It would undoubtedly injure Boston canon. This city can obtain all it needs without doing this and can very properly agree to leave a certain amount of water flowing. The people of Manitou also object to the digging up of the streets until the present season is over No one can blame them for wishing to prevent this. The difficulty might be obviated for the present if this city were permitted to lay the sixteen inch main so far within the Manitou limits as would unite it to the ten inch main and lay the larger main through Manitou after the season is over. This would give us fifty per cent more water and at the same time would not in any way damage the streets of Manitou, as the ten inch main comes east as far as Dr. Bell's residence.

An invitation signed by Joseph E Bates has been sent to the editor of this paper to be present at the celebration of the Fourth of July in Denver This will undoubtedly be the most interesting celebration that ever took place in this country. It will be attended by more distinguished visitors and have more interesting features than any like celebration ever given here before. The following is the prospectus sent out by the committee:

The celebration of the Fourth of July at Denver will eclipse anything of the kind ever attempted in the west. Preparations are being made for a three days' jubilee which will appeal to the patriotism of every true American, and every body who can leave is expected to visit Denver A novel sight will be the celebration of the Fourth in the shadows of the snow clad peaks of the Rockies No expense will be spared to make these one of the events to be Remembered by all who may visit Denver on that occasion The capital city of the Centennial State will throw its gates wide open and all in truly royal style

The business part of the city will be decorated in the national colors, and the streets illuminated at night with countless festoons and wreaths of electric lights of red, white and blue. Among the many features of the illuminations will be a great sea of fire across the entire width of the business streets and the use of electric lights in the national colors

There will be a grand street parade on the fourth in which the various military and civic bodies of Colorado will take part. This will be reviewed by Gen Sherman, Gen Swayne, governors of the various states and the President of the United States, who has been invited and has expressed his desire to be present. If possible further will be said.

A sham battle between the U. S. troops from Fort Logan and the troops in National Guard uniform by Gen Sherman and other distinguished visitors will be an attractive feature of the celebration.

The evening of the 4th will be ushered in on the night of the 3rd—an allegorical representation of the resources and industries of

I am not kicking about Dan. He was a good looking and good natured fellow, and he had money enough not to care whether he got ten columns or five lines into the paper during a week. He was reporting for the sake of experience.

Dan's best girl was in Vassar. He showed me her photograph one day, with a burst of confidence, and told me that he was in a peck of trouble about her.

"It's all my own fault," said he. "You see she's one of those girls that think about things and have all sorts of confounded ideas. She likes me well enough but she won't marry me because she believes that women should be industrially independent of men. How's that for an answer to a fellow after he's down on his knees [illegible] fifteen minutes talking eternal devotion with a fervor that bordered on profanity? I replied her to [illegible] sister to me, and that would have been bad enough, but when she said she'd be industrially [illegible] I don't see how it's your fault," said I, jokingly.

"So far it wasn't," said he, "but I didn't [illegible] enough to simply let her try it and fail. I had to work up a little industrial independence of my own. Since I've been here I've been writing her some of the confoundedest lies about my doings in this paper that ever you heard of. She thinks I am the greatest living journalist since I've been sending her papers with all the best stories marked, whether I wrote them or not, and she thinks that a part of intellect which has not been confined by an advanced education, that I'm about the worst girl that ever was born, she's gradually come to the conclusion that it must be easy to be a great journalist; and, by jingo, nothing will do her now, but that we must come down to N. We made an unholy bargain on the spot with the above scheme for its basis; and three weeks later when Miss W. Daisy S[illegible] re-appeared in the field of journalism we were ready to lend her a hand.
